Susanne Salvestrin Lecture Series #1

The Stone Bridges of St. Helena

We're excited to be kicking off a new year and the Susanne Salvestrin Lecture Series with a presentation on the Stone Bridges of St. Helena. Most of St. Helena's stone bridges built after the mid-1890s were replacements for old wooden spans. The stone bridges were notable for their low cost to build and maintain.

Immigrants brought their skills to their new home

Not surprisingly, it was an immigrant and famous stone builder, Scotsman Robert H. Pithie, who introduced the stone bridges to the Napa Valley. Pithie collaborated with another group of skilled immigrants, Italian stone masons, to build the Pope Street Bridge.

Mariam Hansen, Research Director of St. Helena Historical Society, will be the presenter for this lecture.

This lecture will be presented via Zoom; details to follow.
